BAY ST. LOUIS, MISS., FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 1952

Observations...

By UDELL
We have been told that in the City Limits of Bay St. Louis, there are 1878 children of school age. Of this number, approximately 1878 are in schools, either public or private. What has happened to the 200 or more who are not enrolled? Today, of all times, everyone should take advantage of receiving an education, particularly when it can be obtained free of charge in our public schools. This year, more children are enrolled in all of our local schools than ever before, but there are still a number who are being deprived of an education.

The Sidelines Club of St. Stanislaus is sponsoring a motorcade to the stadium tonight starting at 7:00 o'clock for the first home game of the season.

Governor Hugh White believes Mississippi could finance the equalized educational program and provide funds for ailing city government with a one-cent increase in the present two-cent sales tax. The Governor said he was certain some increase in present taxes will be needed to put the Negro educational facilities on a par with the white system, and he added that he did not know what financial recommendations will be made by the joint legislative committee now studying the matter but said he believes "we could get $26 million additional revenue every two years from an increase in the sales tax." White said he figured $20 million of that would be sufficient to add to present education appropriations to take care of equalizing teachers' salaries as well as construction of Negro schools. The remaining $6 million would be "marked" for the municipalities, because "I have definitely promised them some aid," he said.

There is definite danger on Second street and on the beach front where the approaches to the new toll bridge are being prepared. The machines that go back and forth from the beach to the other property, create quite a dust screen and go at a pretty rapid rate of speed. Some provisions should be made to direct traffic here, because a serious accident could be the result.

The Holy Name Society, which has a new banner ordered, will journey to New Orleans Sunday, October 5, for a meeting. The purpose of the gathering, which is to be held in City Park stadium, is to promote reverence and respect for the parish of Our Lady of the Gulf for St. Mary's. Many individuals with members of their families buried in either cemetery, show that they care very little for those interred there. Many of the plots are over-run with grass and weeds. Of all things the final resting places of our loved ones should at least be presentable.

The Girl Scouts and Brownies following three months of vacation, will resume activities next week. Mrs. Margaret Chamberlain's Girl Scout Troop I will have a weiner roast at 3:15 p. m. Wednesday, September 17. All Scouts are to meet at the Episcopal Parish House on Carroll avenue. Brownie Troop II, under the leadership of Mrs. D. Tonkel, will meet Monday, September 15, at 3:30 p. m. in the Methodist Annex. Brownie Troop III, which will have a new leader assisted by Mrs. John Morrill, will meet Tuesday, September 16, at 3:30 p. m. in the annex.

Episcopal School P-T. A. To Meet

Gregory Speaks At Lions' Meeting

A. Homer Gregory, president of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, spoke at the first regular meeting of the new Bay St. Louis Lions Club Monday night at Hotel Reed.

Mr. Gregory, manager of the local Mississippi Power Company, officially welcomed the new club to the Hancock County-Bay St. Louis area, and wished them well and a long and useful life as a civic organization.

He paid tribute to the Lions clubs in Mississippi, as he noted that the Bay Club was the 148th in the state, the largest and most numerous of all civic clubs in Mississippi. The Lions International also leads in the nation, in numerical superiority.

Mr. Gregory, speaking also as a member of the Bay St. Louis Rotary club, of which he is a past-president, reminded the newly-formed organization that the way is hard and long, that attendance would be difficult to get started, but that once a member became imbued with the spirit of Lionism, he would go anywhere and to any length to keep up his perfect attendance.

He told the club that he was the proud possessor of a 22-year old perfect attendance record and that it was a lot of difference to him. He urged the members to "get the urge" and get to meetings every time.

In club activities, the secretary read minutes of the organizational meeting and of the meeting of the Board of Directors held September 4. A report from the board was adopted by the club membership.

The next scheduled meeting will be Monday noon, September 22, at Hotel Reed. Speaker for the day will be Ben Hille president of the Rotary Club.

New members of the group are Roger Heitzmann, Superior Supply Company, and Russell Chapman of the Hancock Bank. These two bring the charter membership to 18.

Jim Pfeiffer was a guest at this meeting.

Following an appeal by the King's Daughters hospital, the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club at its regular meeting Wednesday, voted to assist the hospital in securing funds to purchase a new resuscitator.

The resuscitator at the hospital went out of commission last week, and it was sent to the factory for repairs. Following a communication from Emmerson's, stating that the equipment could be repaired but it would not be guaranteed to remain in operation, the hospital appealed to the Rotary to assist in starting a campaign to secure necessary funds for the purchase of the new resuscitator that had to be ordered.

The Emmerson resuscitator, which is the latest model, combining three units in one—respiration, inhalation and aspiration—is used for new-born babies, in cases of electric shock, drowning, heart disease and general accidents where treatment of shock is necessary.

The committee named to solicit funds is composed of J. R. Schaff, Kenneth B. Whitfield, George Stevenson, James Norman, Henry Osoinach, Lambert Boyd A. H. Gregory, Ben Hille and L. L. Kergosien. All donations, regardless of size, are to be sent to any of the above members, and all checks are to be made payable to the King's Daughters hospital.

Stanislaus Opens '52 Season Tonight

The Saint Stanislaus Rock-chaws will open the football season tonight at the Stanislaus stadium with its old rival McGill of Mobile. The game will get underway at 8 p. m.

The Stanislaus squad this year boasts of ten lettermen and six squad men from last season with about 16 from the Junior team. Coach Farley Day is optimistic about the team this year as it is about the strongest in returning lettermen the Rockchaws have had in several years.

Johnny Canuso at quarter with Alton Perelli backing him up will prove to be the focal point of strength of the Rocks. Bobby Falgout has been shifted to Jerry Rooney's old slot at left half.

J. Gabb and Johnny Erickson should prove to be rather strong at the ends. The veteran of the team is Don Luc who will be making his third year on the squad. On the other side of the line will be Frank Wittmann who will start his second year as a first stringer, while the Hille brothers should prove to be a tower of strength in the center of the line.

Henry "Dutch" Helm, former Coach at De La Salle, started last Monday as Farley Day's assistant. Coach Helm is a letterman from Tulane and with his experience should be of great help to Day in whipping the Rockchaws into a winning combination.

Jimmy N. Roos, chairman of the police advisory board of New Orleans, and owner of a summer home in Clermont Harbor, has been given the spotlight in his recent campaign to improve conditions within the police department.

He recently issued a statement praising the accomplishments of the New Orleans police department and the cooperation it gave in the recent grand jury investigation of possible police bribery.

Roos said he wanted to call attention to the "good work" performed by the department while it was under grand jury fire, declaring that "elemental fairness" calls for public recognition of the accomplishments of the 950-man police force.

This man, who was instrumental in securing a hike in pay for policemen, said that the public should know of the police department's efforts for "the constant improvement of the quality of its service."

Among these efforts, he said are:

Installation of a complete new telephone system "to greatly improve the speed and efficiency of handling incoming and outgoing calls—in police work minutes and seconds count."

Completion of a new firing range that is "fast developing into one of the nation's finest."

Daddy And His Little Girl

(The following points a valuable lesson. It is worth reading... and keeping. It is regretted that the author is unknown; otherwise he would be given credit.)

Today my daughter, who is 7 years old, started to school as usual. She wore a dark blue dress with a white collar. She had on black shoes and wore blue gloves. Her cocker spaniel, whose name is Coot, sat on the front porch and whined his canine belief in the folly of education as she waved good-bye and started off to the hall of learning.

Tonight we talked about school. She told me about the girl who sits in front of her, the girl with yellow curls, and the boy across the aisle who makes funny faces. She told me about her teacher who has eyes in the back of her head, and the trees in the school yard, and about the big girl who doesn't believe in Santa Claus. We talked about a lot of things—tremendously vital, unimportant things, and then we studied spelling, reading, arithmetic—and then to bed. She's back there now... back in the nursery sound asleep, with "Princess Elizabeth" (that's her doll) cuddled in her right arm.

You guys wouldn't hurt her, would you? You see, I'm her daddy. When her doll is broken or her finger is cut or her head gets bumped, I can fix it—but when she walks across the street, then she's in your hands.

She's a nice kid. She can run like a deer, and dart about like a chipmunk. She likes to ride horses, swim, and hike with me on Sunday afternoons. But I can't be with her all the time; I have to work to pay for her clothes and her education. So please help me look out for her. Please drive slowly past the schools and intersections—and please remember that children run from behind parked cars.

Please don't run over my little girl.—Daily Herald, Monday, Sept. 8, 1952.

Forestry News

By: Jack Stewart, Area Forester
Approximately $140,000 has been received from the sales of beetle infested timber on 9,000 acres in Southwest Mississippi, according to C. B. Marlin, forest management director of the Mississippi Forestry Commission. "Even though losses have been great with the best of control measures, an overall net profit has resulted from the salvage and sale of beetle killed timber," asserts Marlin. He adds, "This has come about mainly by the acceptance and quick utilization of infested trees by the sawmill and pulp industries."

The average cost of spraying and treating material that cannot be sold is approximately twenty-five dollars per acre, which is less than the stumpage value of 1,000 board feet of uninfested timber," states Marlin.

The total number of beetle infestations now stands at 1,818. Last week, 64 new outbreaks were spotted.

Control continues to move faster than the beetle, and landowners are again advised against selling their timber in fear of a beetle attack.

A complete aerial survey by the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine of the total infested area will begin on September 2. "At the conclusion of this survey we will be able to understand fully the progress made in control during the past month," Marlin said.

COUNTY CORRESPONDENCE

The South Coast Echo

SEA COAST ECHO, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 1952

Section Two

Section Two

With cases of polio springing up all over the State, we are especially glad that the people of this State responded as they did to the fund-raising campaign for polio this year. Our hospital facilities are over-taxed already with many more cases to care for. With the funds raised and with friends ready to assist in providing additional facilities for taking care of polio sufferers, the sun is still shining, and we do not despair. We must take good care of polio cases and continue our educational and research programs along with the splendid service program we have developed in Mississippi.

The same is true relative to our rising load of cases of cancer. The citizens of the State have responded well in the cancer fund-raising campaign this year, but even with the fine work done in this volunteer effort, there is not enough money yet in sight to adequately care for the victims of these diseases; however, we do the very best we can with what we have, and I feel a sense of deep gratitude to so many fine men and women who have given time and money to these most worthy causes.

There are those who say, "Why not let the Government do it all? Why do we support our voluntary agencies, such as polio, cancer, tuberculosis, crippled children, et cetera?" The answer I think, is that we cannot retire from the voluntary field if we wish our present American civilization to survive. Ours is a voluntary society. The fabric of our American life is woven around our voluntary associations, our churches, professional societies, women's organizations, business, labor and farmers' associations, and our charitable institutions. We recognize that this is the very nature of the American life and our American way of life. The official agencies supported with tax money and the voluntary agencies supported by the gifts of a great hearted people combined, are not sufficient as yet to adequately take care of the needs of the multiplied thousands who are not able to take care of themselves. Anyone advocating discontinuing the official agencies of health, education and welfare, or the voluntary agencies, does so, I think, without having the necessary information needed to make a wise and proper decision. Misses Alred Honored At Party

Mrs. James Trigg and Mrs. James Quinn, the former Misses Madge and Billie Alred, who were married recently in a double ceremony in Collins, Miss., were honored at a round of pre-nuptial parties.

REHEARSAL SUPPER
Mesdames P. A. Terrill, R. F. Cameron, Lora Blount, Ernest Lott, L. H. McLaurin, Sr., and J. P. Buckley Jr. entertained the members of the Alred-Quinn and Alred-Trigg wedding party with a rehearsal supper in the private dining room of Jones Cafe Saturday, August 23, at 8:30 p. m.

The tables were covered with cut work cloths. Pink rosebuds in silver vases and pink candles in silver candelabra completed the table arrangements. Attractive place cards featured hearts and wedding bells. The brides and grooms places were marked with pink and silver ribbons. Places were laid for 31 guests.

Pink corsages were presented the honorees by the hostesses. The supper was served to the wedding party, the brides' mother and Miss Anna Estes McRaney. PARTIES HONORING BRIDES

Mrs. W. H. McCall opened the round of parties honoring the brides with a breakfast in Hattiesburg. The guests, composed of the brides, the mother of the brides and the matron of honor assembled at the home of Mrs. McCall where they were served iced drinks and afterward they were ushered to Grey's Restaurant for breakfast.

Miss Madge Alred wore a becoming yellow embroidered nylon costume, while Miss Billie Alred chose a similar model in pink with navy trim. The hostess was attired in orchid linen.

The party returned to the home of Mrs. McCall where the brides were presented with identical gifts of framed and hand decorated invitations to their weddings as lasting souvenirs of the occasion. HONORED AT TEA SHOWER official and voluntary health agencies are badly needed and must continue to cooperate each with the other, and face the enemies common to health, to both organizations such as diseases, unnecessary deaths, ignorance, poverty, et cetera.

The Women of the Collins Presbyterian Church entertained at a Tea shower honoring the brides in the home of Mrs. D. C. McRaney. Receiving at the door was Mrs. McRaney, who presented the guests to the receiving line, composed of Mrs. T. A. Burgin, who wore a gown of violet crepe, Mrs. W. W. Alred, mother of the brides, gowned in mauve crepe and lace, Miss Madge Alred in yellow silk organza and Miss Billie Alred in white silk organza.

COMMUNITY FOOD PRICE PROGRAM TO BE EXTENDED

The Office of Price Stabilization has been laying the groundwork for the inauguration of a community food pricing program in many of the nation's grocery stores. Robert W. May, district OPS director, announced this week.

He explained that under the program, to be put into effect around October 1, retail grocers in selected areas will conspicuously post charts showing the ceiling prices of about 400 major market-basket food items still under control. About 70 per cent of all retail food items remain under control. These charts, or posters, will be of benefit to both the consumer and the grocer in many respects.

The posters will be distributed by OPS to the retailers, Mr. May said.

The agency proposes to inaugurate the food pricing program in about 50 areas now having OPS regional or district offices, he said. Community food pricing, used during World War II, has already been tested and proved successful in Fresno, California; Fargo, South Dakota; and Jacksonville, Florida.

SUSPENSIONS

OPS has suspended price controls on radios, television sets, and record players, as well as on soft-surface floor coverings, bedding and cotton linens. Office of Price Stabilization announced this week.

Accompanying this suspension order, was an order exempting from price controls vitrified chinaware, hand-made household glassware, silverware, jewelry and miscellaneous items, producers' sale of eastern hogs and bolts, and certain sales of ungraded rough southern yellow pine lumber.

Both orders reflect the OPS policy of relaxing controls in areas where prices are "soft"—that is, where prices are not expected to reach present ceilings in the foreseeable future.

or where the items exempted are not important in the cost of living.

OPS officials said price controls will be re-imposed on the suspended commodities should their prices approach ceilings effective before suspension.

SLAUGHTERING

Cattle slaughters have been relieved of the need to file Public Forms 13 and 14 with OPS until further notice.

These reports were formerly required under the live cattle regulation. Removal of this requirement is another step in the policy of OPS to streamline reporting requirements wherever practical.

Suspension of this reporting requirement does not mean that the record keeping or other requirements of the regulation are no longer in effect.

Mississippi Tops Oil States In Discovery And Production Costs

Would you risk as much as $200,000 at odds of sixteen to one? asked E. D. Kenna, Executive Vice President of the Mississippi-Alabama Division, Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association, in picturing the great hazards involved in drilling for oil and gas in Mississippi.

Sixteen-to-one is the ratio for dry holes to producing wells in all Mississippi drilling operations to date. For all other oil-producing states, the ratio is only nine to one. Of the 204 wells completed so far in 1952, 56 are producing oil, nine are producing gas and 142 are dry holes.

"Another factor in the high cost of searching for oil in this state," Kenna stated, "is the great depth to which the drill must be sunk before oil is reached."

Mississippi wells average over 7,000 feet in depth while, for the rest of the nation, the average depth is only 3,800 feet. Drillers in Mississippi must now face an expenditure of from $40,000 to $200,000 per well in drilling cost against odds of sixteen to one.

That the Oil and Gas Industry has faith in Mississippi and her future is unquestionably proved by the fact that, in spite of this immense cost of both discovery and production, there are today 1,760 producing oil and gas wells in the state," Kenna declared.

Daily oil production is now approximately 100,000 barrels. The state collects nearly $600,000 per month in severance taxes on this production.

been are required to file Form DO 1-6, must continue to do so.

NEW AUTOMOBILES

Automobile dealers are still required to display posters showing the ceiling price and certain other charges for each make and model of new automobiles they sell and to furnish customers with an itemization of the charges.

USED AUTOMOBILES

Ceiling prices on used automobiles must be reduced another 2 percent on and after October 1, under Office of Price Stabilization regulations governing such sales.

WEEKLY NEWS LETTER

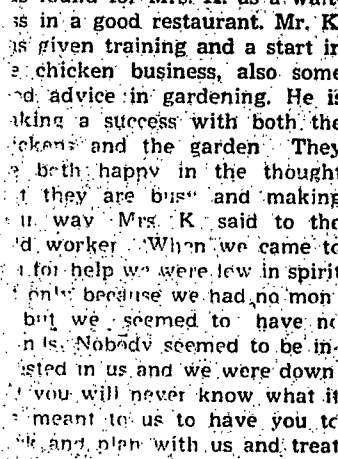

W. F. Bond, Director of Public Welfare
State Department of Public Welfare

Mr. and Mrs. K. were living in rented cabin in the country. Mr. K's eyesight grew so dim that he could not get employment. Their monthly income was $40 from the Welfare Department. They were very unhappy with nothing to do and not enough money to meet their everyday needs. The case was reported to the Rehabilitation Division of the State Welfare Department. Several visits were made by trained workers to this home in need. After a good deal of planning and some training the couple moved nearer town. A job was found for Mrs. K. as a waitress in a good restaurant. Mr. K. is given training and a start in a chicken business, also some advice in gardening. He is making a success with both the chicken and the garden. They are both happy in the thought that they are busy and making it. Way Mrs. K. said to the worker, "When we came to a job help we were low in spirit but because we had no money we seemed to have no hope. Nobody seemed to be interested in us and we were down. You will never know what it meant for us to have you to help us plan with us and treat us like human beings. We shall never forget you." A little brother love and intelligent advice in dealing with those who are distressed in time often means more than financial help. With a little financial help and a good deal of love and planning many can think they are down and out and really live again.

Guess the gas cost... for 6 cups or 60

Natural gas is one item in the family budget which, on the average, costs no more now than it did 20 to 30 years ago. We believe you'll agree it's worth much more than it costs today.

Consider its familiar, every-day use in making coffee... you can still make six cups of coffee or even sixty, in a big commercial urn, for less than a penny's worth of fuel when you use natural gas. Stop to think of all the wonderful services gas performs in your home, and you, too, will say, "Natural gas in the Gulf South is worth much more than it costs today."

Air must circulate freely around a refrigerator to carry away the heat that comes from it, says the Extension rural electrification specialist. Allow 10 to 12 inches of open space over the box and 4 to 6 inches at the side and back.

Choose simple clothes for children, but colorful ones that are free of extra belts and trimmings, advises the Extension clothing specialist.

Social Security Changes Effect Children, Relatives of Dead Servicemen

Changes made last month in the social security law have special importance for minor children of men who died in military service after September 16, 1947, according to Mrs. Lula Wimberly, manager of the Gulfport social security office.

Until the new law was passed service in World War II could count toward social security payments but service after the end of World War II did not.

The new law extends the social security credits to cover military or naval service after the end of the war, so that now service of any time from September 8, 1950, to December 31, 1953, may count toward benefits.

Children are not the only dependents who may get monthly payments. Mrs. Wimberly pointed out—widows over 65, and widows over 65 with minor children in their care must be entitled to them. Dependent parents may be eligible if the serviceman is not survived by a widow or child.

Social Security credits for military service after the end of World War II will be used in figuring monthly benefits beginning in September. They will not count toward lump-sum death payments where death occurs before September 1952.

Mrs. Wimberly suggests that some member of the family inquire at the social security office about the social security account of every deceased veteran or serviceman who had military service after July 1947 and is survived by a widow, child, or dependent parent. The Gulfport social security office is in the Kerr Bldg., 13th Street and 24th Avenue, Gulfport.

Plan State Fair

Jackson. (Special)—"This year the general livestock and dairy cattle exhibit at the Mississippi State Fair promises to be of better quality and larger number," according to L. A. Higgins, Extension Dairying leader at State College and Superintendent of the State Dairy Show. He will be assisted again this year by Arlis Anderson and V. A. Winstead.

The senior exhibit will consist of Jersey, Guernsey, Holstein and Brown Swiss breeds with the possibility that milking short horn breeders may also have a display herd this year.

All creditable animals, classed strictly as dairy breeds and owned within Mississippi, are eligible for entry and judging will be on a 1st, 2nd, 3rd basis this year, rather than the classification method as used for the last few years. Dr. Clyde Rougeau, Department of Animal Industry, Lafayette, Louisiana, will be the judge. Dr. Rougeau has been judged Mississippi shows in the past and has always done an exceptional job. Judging of the male class will start about 2:30 p. m., Tuesday, October 7, and the remaining entries of the Senior show will be judged Wednesday, Oct. 8, starting at 9:00 A. M. Premium money for breeder entries of dairy cattle has been increased over that of last year by 50%.

Always of great interest to Fair visitors is the Junior Dairy Show. In putting on these excellent shows these youngsters are getting training in fitting, showmanship and other fundamentals of successful and practical dairying procedures. This outstanding show will be held Tuesday, October 7, at 9:00 A. M. and will probably include some 150 animals. One of the feature awards will be a beautiful trophy presented by the Jackson Chamber of Commerce for the County herd adjudged top herd of the show.

Within the last few years the dairy business has grown to one of Mississippi's outstanding industries and in 1951, brought a cash income of $32,851,000, to State cattlemen, in addition to approximately the same value of dairy products used right on the farm. Every visitor to the 1952 Mississippi State Fair will want to see this show, which promises to be one of the South's finest Dairy Cattle Exhibits.

WHAT'S HAPPENING IN PASS PUBLIC SCHOOLS?

Dangers confronting the public school system are becoming more widely understood throughout the entire United States. An effort is being made to bring the public schools of America to a new level. Thinking school affairs, regardless of whether they have a child enrolled or not, for "Today's children are tomorrow's citizens." It is recognized that because of present rapid and impending shortages of class qualified teachers the entire nation is recognized, faced and something done about it.

All too often our smaller towns are tranquil, but the works of recognized writers appearing in widely distributed magazines are bringing about an awakening.

An evaluation of the Pass Christian Public Schools is not long in the making. It might behoove us, as citizens, to take a square look at our schools and do a bit of private evaluation. And, incidentally, evaluation is not to be confused with "criticism." After making a private analysis, an individual might ask himself: "What can I, as a person, do to further that which is good or eliminate that which is bad?"

Actually there is much for which we can be grateful. Our Pass Christian Public High and Elementary School is housed in a clean, modern building. It is located in a perfectly peaceful community. Its grounds are beautiful with an abundance of large and noble live-oak trees. So picturesque is the setting until the school is annually included on the Garden Pilgrimage tour.

Our school has reason to be proud of some of its equipment. The school owns a new movie projector and the use of weekly movies is forward thinking for the impressions made by visual aids in learning is recognized. Our school also has a splendid custodian and one of the finest waxing machines on the market. Rooms are kept clean and there is sufficient light.

The library situation in our school has improved. With a full-time librarian and study hall teacher students have an added advantage. Much time and talent has been spent on improving teaching methods. Strides are being made toward improvement in discipline among older students. Elementary grades have always had that situation well in hand. Even townspeople are becoming increasingly aware of the importance of the school-child as tomorrow's citizen as evidenced by their desire to make class rooms more comfortably cool with window fans. Our school room is an investment in tomorrow. We want to make it an investment in democracy.

Yes, Pass Christian High and Elementary School isn't overly crowded by comparison with other schools. True, the cafeteria which feeds a 20c lunch daily to approximately 190 students is small and students eat in shifts with a pretty rapid turn-over of customers. There is an element of dependability about the workers in the cafeteria. Their presence may be counted on. Meals are cooked and served on schedule.

We cannot be very proud of our text-book situation. In the first place, it is apparent that the amount of money set aside for the purchase of books is no where near sufficient. This year children are using text books that are worn-out, dirty, and many with pages torn out. Not all of the text books are in this condition. But many are.

Science, history, styles in clothing, methods of teaching all advance over the years and books that in one year are accurate are in another year and age as out-moded as the hand-pump. In reality even the text-book situation is not as dark as it seemed on the opening day of school, for $804. of new books have been ordered. It seems that approximately $350 was left on deposit from the county for the purchase of books, and our schools budget allocation for the year amounted to $371.

A mere one thousand and five hundred dollars has been estimated as sufficient money to purchase all necessary books for adequately supplying never and sufficient books for all students. Weak point, too, that cannot be overlooked is lack of school music where funds for operating school do not include band or music instructions and where high school subjects are limited to a minimum with only one foreign language (Spanish) being offered on the curriculum. The over-all picture of physical education is limited.

TRINITY EPISCOPAL CHURCH RESUMES SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASSES

Dr. Willis Clayton Clark, who retired as rector of the Trinity Episcopal Church at the end of February, has returned to the church as a supply minister and announces that Communion Services will be held each Sunday morning at 7:30. Church School for young people and children will be conducted each Sunday morning at 9:30; and there will be regular morning worship at 10:00 a. m. each Sunday. In addition there will be a communion service each Friday morning at 10:00 a. m.

Church school for young people disbanded during the summer, and last Sunday classes were in process of re-organization. Indications are that the people of the church feel a definite need for continuation of church school and it is felt that the majority of those formerly in the group will return to classes.

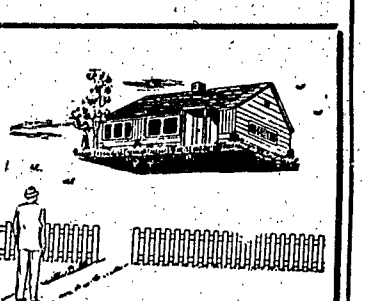

Mrs. Richard O. Heistand will teach the Youth Group which is composed of high juniors and seniors. During the reorganization period, Mrs. W. G. Clark will teach the intermediate group. Teachers for the other groups have not been announced.

Dr. Clark graciously returned when he received a call from the vestry and his response was wholehearted. "Mrs. Clark and I are glad to be of service in Pass Christian's Trinity Episcopal Church," said Dr. Clark "and we will give the best that is within us until a permanent leader is secured." It is expected that Dr. and Mrs. Clark will remain in Pass Christian all of September and into October. They have come prepared to stay until such time as a suitable rector is appointed. They have expressed the hope that the vestry will not feel pressed to make a hurried decision.

Dr. and Mrs. Clark served in Pass Christian for five years prior to retirement at the end of February. Since that time they have made their home in Macon, Mississippi. Their return to Pass Christian was heartily welcomed by townspeople who learned to love and respect this couple during their years of faithful ministry in this community.

Actually enough pledge money has been deposited in the bank to pay for five or six needed fans, and pledge money is still coming in. It is expected that by the end of the current week the drive will reach a successful close with a fan in each window. Unusual cooperation came in the form of help from two Gulfport sources. The Favre Candy Company sent five dollars; and Dr. J. T. Taylor, also of Gulfport, sent two dollars.

Edgar Bohn generously added ten dollars to the fund.

Delta Provides New Homes, Hope For War Area Refugees

A Mississippi Delta cotton planter and a handful of displaced European war victims have, despite different customs and language barriers, reached a common understanding which is proving a profitable venture for both in Mississippi and which is helping reaffirm the belief of America's greatness as a land of opportunity for all.

The venture, a modern furniture factory at Sledge, a small community in the heart of the cotton-growing Delta, probably never would have been undertaken had it not been for the migration of labor from the plantations in the industrial centers of the North.

The man responsible for the project—Latvia Furniture Manufacturing Company—is Harry Howze, graduate in business from Mississippi State College, manager of a 1500-acre plantation, and an aggressive young man in his thirties whose sales ability has sparked the 3-year business into sudden modest but rapid success.

Howze returned to Sledge in 1949 after a stint with a big rubber and tire company and took over the plantation of his father upon the latter's death, managing it for himself and his five sisters. Cotton at that time was the principal crop.

Shortly after the war, however, the negro tenants on his place started drifting North, as was the case in many other sections of the Delta. By 1948 the farm labor situation had become so acute that a neighbor of Howze, Col. A. T. Elliott of Senatobia, decided to let him in Germany to transport several hundred Latvians to Mississippi as farm laborers on his place.

Howze, quick to recognize the possibility of solving the labor problem, offered in the Spring of 1949 to assume responsibility for 25 of the families with the provision that they remain with him for a year's trial.

The bewildered, fear-ridden refugees, who fled their homes first at the German invasion, then from the Russians, arrived in New Orleans, where they were housed in a camp. With little more than the clothes they wore, a few spoke a little broken English, the older ones were ill, and the younger ones were their first welcome to America, and carried them to their new American homes at Sledge, a strange land compared to Latvia, which in climate and terrain corresponds to Minnesota.

The farm houses which had been occupied previously by negro and white tenants were turned over to the newcomers, and Howze agreed to furnish all materials and tools, provided the occupants fixed up their own homes.

"Most of them," Howze says, "put in new floors, papered the ceilings and prettied up the interiors. All of them immediately went to work to break ground for small gardens."

"These folks can raise more on an acre of ground than we ever dreamed of," Howze declares. That first year the Latvian tenants worked long and hard to produce cotton, a crop entirely new to them and especially difficult for a cultured people unaccustomed to the rigorous toil under a broiling sun foreign to their native land.

"They just weren't inclined toward the type of farming we do in the Delta," Howze relates. "They were more accustomed to dairying and livestock."

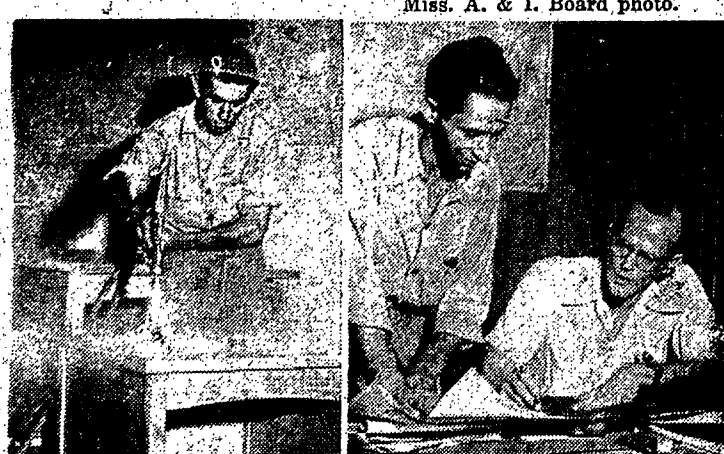

Most of them became discouraged after the first year, and all of them were discontent to remain idle during off-season periods. Howze sensed their restlessness, and decided to do something about it.

Shortly after their arrival he had noted that many of the Latvians showed exceptional skill in woodworking, in repairing machinery, and in designing novelties and furniture.

"They had made furniture for their homes; they could tear down an automobile and reassemble it, and were always coming up with interesting new novelties, such as

A master craftsman in Latvia where he manufactured household furniture, Adolfs Jacobson Povosils, 70, starts a new life in Delta, where he is one of six key men in the Latvia Furniture Manufacturing Company.

Bruno Kalins, native Latvian, sprays lacquer on a finished teacher-type desk at the Latvia Furniture Manufacturing Company plant at Sledge.

At right, Harvey Howze, plant owner, confers with his plant manager, Charles Povosils, over plans for possible future expansion of the growing 3-year-old company, which was started as a hobby to keep displaced Latvian persons occupied during off-peak seasons.

telephone "gossip stands," inner closet door racks for men's clothing, and similar gadgets," Howze recalls. "So, I decided to set up a simple hobby woodworking shop in the back of the commissary, more to give them something to do between seasons than for any other reason, never dreaming that it might develop into an industry."

At first Howze encouraged his friends and neighbors to give their repair work—furniture, screens and doors, and other odd jobs—to the Latvians. He agreed to let them make whatever profit they could from such work.

Soon Howze discovered that he had uncovered some excellent craftsmen. One was 70-year-old Adolfs Jacobson Povosils, a master craftsman in his native Latvia— which requires a 20-year apprenticeship—who had operated a plant of his own manufacturing custom-built furniture.

His son, Charles, whom he had taught the trade, also showed excellent promise and had the additional advantage of being able to speak English reasonably well.

Four other members of the original consignment showed interest and inclination for the work, and into orders for store fixtures and soon the odd jobs had developed plant interiors. They also made a few novelties which they distributed locally and in the immediate vicinity.

"I soon realized, however," Howze recounts, "that I was either going to have to get into the manufacturing business, or give up the idea of having a hobby shop in the back of my store. Business was growing too fast."

At that point Howze became interested in a survey of the National School Service which pointed out that 600,000 desks would be needed for school classrooms during the next five years, a demand exceeding the output.

At this point, he and his six confederates launched into the manufacture of desks for students, teachers and school workers, utilizing the bountiful supply of oak to be found in Mississippi and nearby Tennessee.

The hobby shop moved to a 40-acre site at the edge of the town of 500 persons and into a quonset type structure equipped with machinery for turning out shiny new all-wood desks. Arrival of defense orders since that time necessitated additional space, which at one time accommodated 80 workers.

Today the plant employs 25 workers with Charles Povosils, the master craftsman's son, in charge. The five original Latvian workers occupy key jobs. The firm's annual payroll runs approximately $200,000.

Desks are being shipped to all but about three of the 48 states, and oddly enough Maine is one of the Latvia Furniture Manufacturing Company's largest customers. All but two of the 12 families now living in Sledge have moved into town, and only one of the original families is still attempting to farm in Mississippi's Delta. They all have new automobiles, have built their own church of the Lutheran faith at Senatobia, making the pews in the Sledge plant. The fear they showed toward strangers upon arrival three years ago is rapidly giving way to a new look of hope for the future in a land which has befriended them and permitted them to prosper and worship in freedom.

SOCIAL WORKER FINDS SCHOOL CHILDREN IN NEED OF CLOTHING
Mrs. Julia McDonald Everett, a social worker in Pass Christian, whose record includes seven years service as a Special Officer for the City and nine years as Assistant Youth Councilor for Harrison County, says there is an urgent need for school clothing for both white and colored children between the ages of 7 and 12 years. Suits, coats, shirts, pants, dresses, shoes and underwear are all needed.

Mrs. Everett visits some times as many as seven homes a day and is well acquainted with the populace and its needs. "This year the needs are even greater than last year among school children," declared Mrs. Everett.

By Mrs. J. G. Troutel

Mrs. Alton Landry and her mother, Mrs. A. Brink entertained at a birthday party in honor of Maria Peterson on her sixth birthday.

The table and room were decorated in pink and blue—the table centered with a large pink and blue cake.

Helping Maria celebrate her birthday were Fayann Klein, Ina Belle and Millie Usher, Joy Peter.

character. Her home, located at 505 St. Louis street, is her workshop. Boxes accumulate on her front porch where church workers, and individuals acquainted with Mrs. Everett's work, leave clothing to be distributed. Number 182-W, her telephone number, is frequently ringing. Good-hearted people offering assistance. Tired, worried, badly adjusted people seeking help. Folks who have just run out of luck look to her for a bit of help over a rough spot. Where there is sickness and need, Mrs. Everett is sought out.

Mrs. Everett was born in Pass Christian. She is the daughter of the late Capt. John McDonald and the former Miss Julia Taconi of Bay St. Louis. This diminutive, black-eyed lady, holds herself to a rigid schedule of active service. She is known to the ministers of all churches from whom she gets much help and cooperation. She is a servant of the Rotary Club which organization she praises for its generosity. For the past five years the Rotary Club has given Mrs. Everett a free hand in the selection and purchasing of Christmas toys for needy children.

Last year she personally selected one hundred and forty-seven children's Christmas gifts. These selections were made with great care; for she sought out the families and learned of the wishes of each individual child. Shopping for just the "right gift" took one month of Mrs. Everett's time—of course—she did her other routine work between shopping. On Christmas eve night these gifts were personally delivered to the home of each boy and girl on Mrs. Everett's list.

Deliveries were made with the assistance of Mrs. Donita, foreman for the city and Mr. Marvin Lader of the City Water Works. "The Rotary Club spreads a lot of Christmas Joy," declared Mrs. Everett. Mrs. Everett also has a hand in the purchase of food baskets which are bought from individual donations and distributed mostly among elderly people during the holiday season.

Having only one child of her own, Mrs. Everett finds the heart and the time to mother an undetermined number of girls who are in need of understanding care. Sometimes she is able to work out solutions with the girls and their parents. Sometimes she places girls in homes or schools. Most of them, in time, write letters of gratitude to Mrs. Everett. Her influence for good is unlimited. Her energy to accomplish her purpose is boundless.

This summer Mrs. Everett did take time out from her occupation to visit her daughter, Mrs. Walter Decker, who is married to a staff sergeant in the air corps and stationed in Denver, Colorado. Mrs. Everett, even on vacation, thought of her "charges" back in the Pass and seemed glad to return to her work.

Perhaps the success Mrs. Everett has achieved as a social worker is due to the kindness of her heart. Anybody's trouble is Mrs. Everett's trouble. Anybody's sickness is Mrs. Everett's sickness. Anybody's need is Mrs. Everett's need. She thinks people are kind and generous and says whenever a need is made known people respond promptly and generously.

HOME AGENT NOTES

Easy Recipes For The Homemaker

By: Miss Sarah Weaver, Home Agent

Are't you feeling lots better and having spurts of renewed energy now that the hot summer temperatures are waning somewhat? Most everybody I see greets me with a comment on the cooler days and nights.

With the fall garden to get planted and in good shape, hints to be let out in Susie's and Junior's school clothes and new ones to be made, canning and freezing of fruits and vegetables, house cleaning and many other chores, I believe you'll welcome a couple of recipes for quickly and simply made dishes. And both of them involve a minimum of dishwashing and cleaning up afterwards!

DANISH PASTRY

All the mixing is done in one pie pan. Here's how:

Place 6 tablespoons of melted butter in a 9 or 10-inch pie pan. Add 1 cup of flour. Blend with a fork until well mixed. With fingertips dipped in flour, press pastry against bottom and sides of pie pan in a thin, even layer. Place in a 350 degree Fahrenheit oven and bake to a golden yellow color. Don't bake too brown. Cool.

Add cooled, cooked filling as cream pie or lemon pie. If you desire meringue, bake in a slow oven, then place pie to cool. This crust will hold together and is especially tasty with banana cream pie, coconut cream pie or other fruit cream pies.

CHERRY PUDDING

When Mrs. Felder, our Extension foods and nutrition specialist, tried out this recipe she suggested that huckleberries, blackberries with a little lemon juice or canned plums without the seeds would be just as good as the cherries. Look over your pantry shelves, you might come up with another good idea for a tasty substitute.

The following list of ingredients will make 6 to 8 servings. One-half of the recipe will fit nicely in a 3-cup casserole or ovenware bread pan.

2 tablespoons butter
1 cup sugar
1 cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/8 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup milk
1 No. 2 Can (2 1/2 cups) pie cherries
1/4 teaspoon almond extract
2 teaspoons cornstarch
Few drops red food coloring

Cream butter and 1/4 cup of the sugar in a 1 1/2 quart casserole or baking dish. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Add alternately with milk to creamed mixture, stirring well.

Strain cherries; add enough water to juice to make 1 1/2 cups of liquid. Add almond extract. Mix cornstarch with remaining 1/4 cup of sugar; add to liquid, then bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Add coloring.

Four hot juices over batter. Spread cherries over top. Do not stir. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F) 40 to 45 minutes.

CONTROL PEA AND BEAN WEEVILS

Farmers saving dried peas and beans for eating next winter or as seed for planting next spring's garden, should treat to prevent weevils from destroying the peas and beans.

A drop in time of carbon bisulphide (high life) will save food for nine.

Place the seed to be stored in an air tight container, pour in necessary amount of high life and cover tightly. At the end of 24 to 36 hours, pour the seed out and air them. Then put in a tight container and store.

A closely woven sack, jars, or buckets will do to store seed. If you use jars or buckets be sure that several small holes are punched in top or bottom so that moisture will not collect on the seed.

Amounts of high life needed to treat dried peas and beans is: one quart of seed - four drops; one gallon of seed - one fourth to one teaspoon; four gallons of seed - one to two teaspoons; one bushel of seed - four to six teaspoons.

Caution. Keep fire away from carbon bisulphide (high life).

Other fumigants can also be used. Follow directions on container.

COTTON

Stop cotton fire losses. These cost the cotton industry around 15 million dollars a year.

Farmers and ginners can cooperate to reduce greatly these fire losses.

Farmers duties include making sure that the cotton is free from

Serve warm with cream or ice cream.

SHINE UP CHROME

Sometimes the chrome even on new furniture loses its shine. If this has happened to your kitchen furniture don't try cleaning it up with an abrasive. That means don't use steel wool or scouring powder. Your best bet is to give it a coating of cream wax and then brighten it by polishing with a dry cloth.

The same cream polishing technique does nicely on plastic upholstery of most kitchen furniture. It keeps it clean and shiny and prevents stain from digging into the plastic.

Announce new Social Security Benefits; Increase Local Residents' Payments

If you are one of the 300 people in Hancock County who receive monthly old-age and survivors insurance payments, September 1 and October 3 are two dates to remember.

Beginning September 1 you can earn as much as $75 per month and still cash your social security checks. About October 3 your benefit check for September will go into the mail, and practically all families receiving benefits will get increased amounts beginning with these checks.

Mrs. Lula Wimberly, manager of the Gulfport social security office, points out that no application need be made for the increase in payments already being made. It will be made automatically.

A person who is on the rolls but is not receiving checks because he is earning between $50 and $75 a month should call at or write to the social security office in order to get his payments started.

Self-employed people who receive the payments may average as much as $75 per month throughout the year and still receive monthly benefit checks, according to Mrs. Wimberly. Thus, a self-employed person who works in his own business and makes no more than $900 in a year will receive all the monthly checks. If he earns more than $900 in the year, benefits for one or more months may not be payable. The number of months for which benefits are not payable depends on the amount of work he does in his business and the amount by which his earnings exceed $900.

After a person reaches 75 social security benefits may be paid to him regardless of how much he is earning.

foreign matter such as rocks and metals. The National Cotton Council estimates that more than half of all gin fires are caused by rock and metals in seed cotton.

Ginners should keep the gin plant free from trash, lint and flies, and keep it clean. They should maintain adequate fire fighting equipment and have all employees trained to act swiftly in case fire breaks out.

Ginners can enforce the "No Smoking Rule" on the premises.

PASTURES

Early September is the time to get clover land ready for planting. Now is the time to fertilize and nitrate established fescue and clover combinations. This will make for early grazing from the fescue. No land preparation is necessary to refertilize the land. Just broadcast the fertilizer on top. You can use phosphate and potash basic slag and potash or mixed goods like 0-14-1 or 0-20-20.

Do not plant oats or other cereals out on sod land and nitrate this early. If you do the nitrate will cause the grass to make rapid growth. By the time the oats or other cereals come up the grass will choke it out. Hold the planting of oats and other cereals until around October 1st.

Approximately 300 girls left New Orleans, August 10 on buses and enjoyed sightseeing tours enroute to Indiana and on the return trip.

KILN SCHOOL OPENS

by SENIOR STUDENTS
Kiln School opened Friday, September 5, 1952, for the coming session. The new superintendent, William M. Simmons, addressed the student body and quite a number of parents who were present. The pastor of the Catholic church, Father Charles Tague, led the devotion part of the opening ceremony.
Two hundred and seventy-five students are enrolled in Kiln School this year; 115 in the high school division and 168 in the elementary school. There are 11 faculty members, seven of whom have taught in Kiln before.
The new superintendent, Mr. Simmons, a native of Newton County, Mississippi, has a B. S. degree and has completed all the work for his M. A. degree with Social Science and School Administration as his majors. Mr. Simmons has spent 24 years in school work, 10 years as a classroom teacher, and 14 as superintendent.
In the Vocational department, Mrs. Cornelius Favre with a B. S. from Mississippi Southern, has taught Home Economics here for several years; Aubrey Penton, from Carriere, Miss., with a B. S. degree in Agriculture and Education from Mississippi State, has been head of the Agriculture department for high school students and veterans for two years. Kiln is in a much better position to give the students a good background in science this session with L. J. Bates, who has a B. S. degree in Science from Mississippi State, is Science and History instructor.
Mrs. Gerald Kennedy Jr., from Waveland, Miss., who holds a B. A. degree from Tulane, having majored in Personal Management and Accounting, and who has a background of experience as Personal Manager for Louisiana State Board of Health and Sears, Roebuck, and as Youth Counselor and Clerical Instructor with the National Youth Administration, in charge of the Commercial Department.
In charge of the English Department is Mrs. George Curet, who has taught in Kiln several times before but has been out of school work for a couple of years. Mrs. Curet has a degree from Mississippi Southern with English and Education as her majors, and has done graduate work in English at George Peabody College for Teachers in Nashville, Tenn.
Another teacher who has already taught here, Linton Lee, is head of the Mathematics department. A student at Miss. Southern for almost four years, Mr. Lee lacks less than six weeks work for having finished the requirements for a degree with mathematics as his major.
In the grammar school division are Miss Rosalie Lyle, with a B. S. from Southern; Miss Myrdessa Martin, who attended P. R. C. and Southern; Mr. Oscar Breland, a graduate of P. R. C. with additional work at Miss. College, Keble and Southern; and Mrs. Squires, who attended Southwestern, majoring in Primary Education, and who is known locally from her previous experience here as a very good primary teacher.

KILN GIRL WINS THIRD PLACE

Rita Favre won third place in the County as Forestry Queen contestant.
The student body nominated Rita Favre Inez Moran, Louise Lee, Beverly Mauffray, Lucille Lee, and Rita Travira to represent Kiln School in the County Forestry Queen Contest.
Rita Favre won first place in Kiln School, and Louise Lee came out-second in the election.

SANITARY FACILITIES IMPROVED

Kiln school is fortunate to begin the new session with a decided improvement in sanitary facilities.
Lavatories have been placed in hall before the entrance to the lunchroom for the children, to wash their hands before eating.
Indoor restrooms for both boys and girls have been added to the main building.

SODALITIES ATTEND RETREAT

The members of the Blessed Virgin Sodality of Kiln, Rocky Hill and White Cypress attended a Retreat in Gadsden, Alabama, August 29 through September 1, 1952. Those attending were Carolyn Curet, Rita Favre, and Margie Peterson, president; Beverly Mauffray, Laurie Curet, Doris Bennett, Gladys Ladner, Jean Hoda and Elaine Necaise members. Accompanying the girls was Sister Agnes John. Father Charles Tague, pastor, flew to Gadsden to accompany the girls and Sister back home. The retreat was held at the dormitory of the Holy Name of Jesus Hospital. The Holy Name of Jesus Hospital, run by Missionary Servants of the Blessed Trinity, the order of which the sisters at Kiln are members.

LUNCHROOM BROUGHT UP TO STANDARD

The lunchroom was moved this summer to a wing in the main building. The walls are painted green and white, with a glass partition between the kitchen and dining areas, so that lunchroom workers can pass food through to the children as they enter and get their own plates.
The floor in the dining area is covered with black and green asphalt tile, and in the kitchen with green inlaid linoleum.
Adjacent to the lunchroom is the store room for supplies.
After inspecting the lunchroom with the trustees and Mr. Breland, County Superintendent of Education, Mr. John Grant, Sanitation Advisor for the Southern District of Mississippi, said, "Kiln lunchroom has in the making one of the best lunchrooms in my district."
Mr. Wayne Allison, Sanitary Inspector for the Hancock County Board of Health, said, "I am very proud of the improvement that has been made this summer in the Kiln lunchroom and in other sanitary facilities. They have been brought up to standards equal to those of the other schools in the county, after having been far below standard in the past."
Mrs. Emmett Ladner is the new manager of the lunchroom this session; her co-workers are Mrs. Dozie Henly Necaise and Mrs. Forest H. Necaise.

KILN COMMUNITY CLUB

The Kiln Community Club met Tuesday afternoon, September 9, at the home of Mrs. Marvin Bolinger.
After the opening of the meeting with prayer by Mrs. Hein, Mrs. Griffith read the minutes of the last meeting and called the roll.
Mrs. Weston, the president, brought up several projects for the school for discussion. The club decided to raise funds to finance the project selected.
After the business meeting, the hostess served delicious refreshments.
Then the club members went to
